Clint Rosenthal is a problem solver. Whether it's taking a case to trial, finding a creative resolution, or working to prevent a problem on the front end of a business deal, Clint works closely with his clients to ensure the best possible outcome while keeping an eye on the bottom line.

Mr. Rosenthal maintains an active litigation and real estate transactional practice. His litigation practice focuses on complex business disputes, but his wide-ranging experience includes products liability claims, shareholder derivative litigation, consumer class action litigation, securities litigation, bad-faith insurance claims, construction defect litigation, high-exposure personal injury cases, toxic tort, trademark, and employment litigation. He has tried numerous jury and bench trials in Texas state and federal courts.

Mr. Rosenthal's transactional practice focuses on commercial real estate matters including drafting and negotiating purchase and sale agreements and commercial leases. His background as a litigator provides valuable insight to help his clients mitigate risk before problems arise.

Mr. Rosenthal's clients are as diverse as his practice and include restaurant chains, manufacturers, film production companies, real estate developers, home builders, oil and gas companies, and entrepreneurial startups, to name a few.

Prior to joining Cain & Skarnulis in 2016, Mr. Rosenthal was a partner at Strasburger & Price, L.L.P., a large Texas firm where he practiced for 14 years.

Mr. Rosenthal is admitted to practice in the courts of the state of Texas and all federal district courts in Texas and Arkansas.
